KUIBYSHEV, Nov. 25.—Hard fighting Soviet troops have stemmed the all-out German advance on Moscow, while Red soldiers in the south have battered their way 60 miles into the Ukraine west of Rostov in savage counter-attacks, the government newspaper Izvestia reported today.

Tremendous battles still rage around the approaches to the capital, the communist party newspaper Pravda related, but the German drive has been slowed, and stopped in some places.

KUIBYSHEV, U. S. S. R.,
Nov. 25.—General improvement of the situation of hard-pressed Red army forces on the Moscow front was reported today by the Communist newspaper Pravda, which said fighting before the capital was growing even more intense.

This development followed admission by government authorities that Moscow was in grave danger and that an estimated 1,000,000 Nazi troops and 10,000 tanks were hammering at the city's defense bat-tions.

Position Improved
But Pravda said the Russian position on the central front had "improved relatively" in the last 24 hours and that fighting had intensified on the northern and southern sectors of Moscow's defense arc.

In a number of sectors, said
Pravda, Soviet forces are holding

Autos that were allowed to stand the temperature drop during the 20 degrees this morning.

A lot of residents on streets that are traversed by street cars expect to get much better radio reception is caused by the operation of the

Will Pay $300,000 To Christmas Savings Fund Depositors Here

Nearly $300,000 will be handed out to bank depositors in New Castle and Lawrence county the first week in December, when the three banks operating Christmas Savings Funds pay off. The total this year is $290,- 000, which is about $40,000 higher than 1940.

The totals of each bank, as reported by them today, follow:
Lawrence Sav. and Tr. Co. $150,000
Union Trust Company . . . 110,000
Peoples Bank of New Castle 30,000

The $290,000 will prove to be a fillip to an already busy buying season in the stores and shops of the city. Clothing merchants, shoe stores, automobile salesmen, jewelry and furniture stores, all of them will feel the golden wave that will be unloaded inside of the next 10 days.

Where the money will go would be an interesting bit of research work. Everything from apple sauce to zither strings would probably be included in the list of articles purchased. Much of the money will go into Christmas shopping. Some of it will go into savings accounts, some of it will be plowed back into another Christmas Savings Fund, and a lot of it will find its way into army camps in the shape of socks, cigarets, razors and the like.

A $3,000 fund for the nation-wide promotion of the motorizing advantages of the Benjamin Franklin highway—famed as the cross-country by-pass route—will be raised immediately from the various Pennsylvania and Ohio communities through which it runs.

That goal was set when members of the executive committee of the National Benjamin Franklin Highway Association discussed ways and means for publicizing the road at a session in The Castleton yesterday.

Luncheon preceded the business meeting. The Pennsylvania communities will be called up to raise $1,500 of that amount, and the Ohio towns the rest.

Booster Groups Proposed Local "Ben Franklin highway booster committees," it was also decided, will be organized in every town and city along the route, or in as many towns as that is possible.

Hopes of the committee directing national attention to the highway—extending from the eastern seaboard to Nebraska, and beyond—lie in the fact that the $3,000 will give the association funds for publishing attractive highway brochures.

Three principal speakers were heard during the afternoon publicity discussion, and one, John H.

Will Speed Anti-Strike Proposals

May Present
Bill Next Week

Wide Divergence Of Opinion
Of Congressmen May
Slow Up Action

'COOLING OFF' PERIOD
SEEMS FAVORED

International News Service Staff

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—President Roosevelt's approval of legislation designed to curb defense strikes spurred house leaders today to speed a bill to the floor next week, but wide differences of opinion on remedies threatened to delay and perhaps imperil the program.

Mr. Roosevelt's approval of legislation providing for a "cooling off" period before strikes, with mediation machinery strengthened, and perhaps compulsory arbitration, was given to a group of administration advisers and house members at a White House conference last night. Demands of southern democratic members for more drastic action were countered by a plea from members closely allied with labor for temperate legislation, with chief reliance upon voluntary methods of averting work stoppages.

Secret Ballot Opposed
A proposal frequently made for a secret ballot by workers before a strike is called was vigorously opposed by some members in the conference, with the result that it apparently will be dropped from the program.

Rep. Cox and Vinson, Georgia Democrats, and Rep. Smith (D) Va., were understood to have served notice in the meeting that if the House Labor committee fails to draft a bill this week they will thrust the question on the floor under a special rule which Smith is authorized to invoke.

Democratic House Leader McCormack said after the conference that "it was the president's sentiments that labor legislation must be considered," he added.

Sanity Period
"There seems to be general agreement that before strikes are called, there should be periods of reason or sanity as some call it—a waiting period during which there would be direct negotiations between employers and employees, and if that fails,

25 SHOPPING

to have government mediation and conciliation, with compulsory arbitration at the president's direction if all other efforts to reach an agreement fail."

Republican Leader Martin said that the president's direction was that no one in the meeting bound himself to a specific proposal. The conference, Martin said, considered "57 varieties of proposals for labor legislation."

Sharp differences in congress were emphasized as a senate judiciary subcommittee continued hearings on the Connally bill to expand the president's power to seize industry, while house leaders ignored this method in their discussions.

Both the house labor committee and senate judiciary subcommittee were to meet today on strike legislation. First protests of representatives of organized labor were expected to be delivered to the committees.

Sen. Thomas (D) Utah, chairman of the labor committee, proposed a substitute for the Connally bill under which the president could direct that injunctions against strikes be sought in federal circuit courts.

"Victory in this war cannot be bought or bluffed. Victory will go to the army that has a punch, and up to the moment at least, the German army is not worn down."

There is no possibility of an internal revolution in Germany at present, Huss said, and emphasized that long lists of death sentences for subversive activities in occupied countries are published daily in the Berlin press.

With regard to the war in Libya Huss said that the Nazi high command had long anticipated and prepared for a major British offensive.

PRICE CONTROL BILL DEBATED

into its second day of debate on the price control matter, with the issue having largely boiled down to a fight between those favoring the far-reaching overall plan of Rep. Gore (D) Tenn., to freeze all prices, wages and rents, and those advocating a banking committee measure which would rigidly limit farm price ceilings, and specifically exempt wages from control.

Proponents of the overall plan privately conceded that the bill barring inclusion of profit limitations had seriously lessened support for their measure.

Gore, who originally had an eight-percent profit limitation in his substitute for the banking committee bill, deleted it from that measure, and announced he would seek ways and means committee action on it.

Not As Drastic
It was recalled that Gore's plan is not as drastic as that recently suggested by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, who advocated that profits be limited to six percent of invested capital.

Meanwhile minority leader Martin called a caucus of all house republicans on price control for tomorrow morning.

Martin indicated that many, if not most, republicans may oppose the price control measure unless the house defeats a committee-approved amendment which would permit the administration to place virtually all business transactions except agriculture, under a licensing system in order to enforce the act.

Rep. Wilcott (R) Mich., ranking republican on the banking committee, publicly announced that he will oppose the bill unless this proposal is turned down.

The house is scheduled to complete general debate on the complicated measure tonight, and start voting on amendments tomorrow. Predictions are that some kind of a bill will be passed by the end of the week.

The committee, meanwhile, having approved the licensing amendment, was called together again today to consider backing another administration-requested change to permit the government to buy and sell in the open market.

Opponents of a provision limiting farm price ceilings to boom-year levels and virtually abandoned hope that the committee will delete this section, and announced they will carry that fight to the floor.

Deaths of the Day

Alfred R. Turner.

Alfred R. Turner, aged 68, who was a candidate for city council on the Democratic ticket in the recent election, died suddenly Monday evening at his home, 435 Boyes avenue, after suffering a heart attack.

Mr. Turner, born December 28, 1872, in Mercer County, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Turner, served as Lawrence County commissioner in 1938 and 1939. For many years, he had been employed as a grocery salesman, working for some time for the J. J. Dean Grocery Co.

Survivors are his wife, Hannah Williams Turner; two sons, Harold, of Muncie, Ind.; Robert, of Eagle Rock, Calif.; four grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. John Clarke of New Castle, Mrs. Laura Moore of San Francisco, Calif., and one brother, Tony Turner of Ellwood City.

The body has been removed to the Joseph B. Leyde mortuary, Highland at Winter, where friends may call and where funeral services are to be conducted Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Dr. G. S. Bennett, First Christian church pastor, in charge. Interment will be in Oak Park cemetery.

The family will receive friends at the mortuary this evening and Wednesday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

BATTLE BEFORE MOSCOW GROWS MORE INTENSE

firm against smashing German assaults.

In the direction of Volokolamsk, this front-line account said, Red army forces are counter-attacking. On still other sectors, it was conceded, the Soviets were forced to retreat to new lines and suffered losses at some points.

Pravda stressed, however, that the retreats were conducted in an "organized manner."

Attacks Beaten Off

A number of Nazi attacks on the Moshalsk district west of Moscow were declared to have been beaten off, and Russian artillery batteries were credited with halting a German attempt to turn the Soviet defense flank on the Moshalsk highway.

According to Pravda the Germans violently shelled Soviet advance lines in the Maloyaroslavets sector and the Narofominsk area yesterday.

South of Moscow, the dispatch said, Red army units continued fighting against superior enemy forces northeast of Tula, wiping out an enemy infantry regiment and destroying 14 tanks. Six enemy planes were said to have been shot down in this engagement.

"After nine days of the new offensive," Pravda said, "the enemy has not reached the approaches to Moscow anywhere and their pincer movement has failed."

New Intensity

As the fighting raged to new pitches of intensity, defenders of the city rallying in their secondary defense lines adopted as their battle cry the World War slogan of Verdun—"they shall not pass."

The new Russian high command communique said fighting continued throughout the night on the entire front.

Tass news agency said huge losses were being inflicted on the Germans but that Nazi reinforcements kept pouring into the battlefields in ever mounting numbers.

It was admitted Moscow's peril was greater than at any time since Napoleon captured the city in his ill-starred Russian campaign.

Nazi spearheads were reported less than 50 miles from the Kremlin. The Red army defending the capital and its "people's army" prepared together for a last-ditch fight to the finish in the heavily barricaded streets. Premier Josef Stalin, directing the defense, remained in the capital.

Biggest In History

Soviet military commentators described the German attack as the biggest onslaught in all history. But the Moscow radio told of the confidence of the army and people there that they can prevent Moscow from being overwhelmed.

"The capital is ready to meet this new onslaught," the announcer declared.

"We send this message to the whole world: 'The Germans shall not pass.'"

The terrific battle brought heavy losses to Soviets as well as Germans, but the Red army forces took heart from a broadcast to the front lines saying Russian forces on the Leningrad and Donetz Basins fronts were counter-attacking successfully, regaining many miles of territory and shattering numerous German units.

"New German regiments are constantly being thrown into the battle," a Moscow broadcast said, vowing the city will never surrender but "hold out for years if necessary."

"Moscow stands as a rock in their path. Moscow is unafraid. Order, quiet and confidence reign."

BERLIN ASSERTS BRITISH LANDING ATTEMPT REPULSED

boats and British destroyers escorting the convoys. All the speedboats were declared to have returned to their bases.

Three British planes were shot down when they attempted to penetrate Heligoland Bight and German occupied territories, it was claimed. During the night, it was announced, German planes bombed several British convoys and severely damaged a merchant vessel of 8,000 to 10,000 tons off Harwick. The statement it was assumed the ship was sunk.

Another vessel was declared to have been hit and badly damaged off the southern coast.

British Confirm Reports

London, Nov. 25.—British authorities today confirmed German reports of a British landing party on the northern coast of France but flatly contradicted Berlin's claim that the detachment was badly defeated.

On the contrary, it was said, there was but one casualty. One British soldier received a machine-gun bullet in the arm.

Many hours after issuance of an official German communique asserting that a British landing party had been repulsed "with heavy losses," correspondents here were permitted to reveal that the announcement probably referred to a recent sortie by one of Britain's famed but mysterious "commando" groups.

On Sunday night, it was learned, this party, composed of young volunteer dare-devils, landed on the Normandy coast.

The patrol carried out its mission—whatever it may have been—and returned to England complete and unscathed except for the single casualty.

Exact nature of the expedition was of course a military secret. But the chief job of the "commando" forces is to destroy communication lines or ammunition dumps, as well as to carry home to the people of occupied countries that Britain is still fighting for their liberation.

NEW CASTLE SURVIVOR OF REUBEN JAMES IS LANDED AT BROOKLYN

exploded. There was a terrific whipping around and shaking of the ship. All the lights went out. "I tried to call to some one on deck. I finally got the attention of a gunner on deck by yelling up to him through the engine room hatch. The boat started to go down by the bow. I was unable to get in contact with the bridge or any of the officers."

Part of Ship Demolished

"I ordered the men in the engine room to go up on deck, and when we reached the topside I found that the entire forward portion of the ship, including the bridge and living quarters, had been demolished."

"I saw that I was the senior man remaining aboard, and I assumed command. The gunner's mate from turret No. 6 told me he could find no living men forward."

"I then ordered the men to lower three life rafts. One by one, the rafts were tossed overboard and we jumped into the water and climbed aboard them."

"The water was chilly but calm. There were no other ships in sight. It was still black as hell because there were no stars and no moon and the dawn had not yet come."

Sank In Five Minutes

"Fortunately, all of the men had their life belts with them. Commander Edwards, he was killed, had always ordered the men on the Reuben James to sleep, eat and work with life belts at hand. That saved many lives for us."

"The James sank in five minutes. The reason no officers were saved was that their quarters and the bridge had been carried away by the explosion."

"When we got aboard the rafts, as I said, there were no other ships in sight. But in about 20 minutes all of us were rescued by another naval vessel."

U-Boat Not Seen

"Nobody had seen any sign of a submarine before the ship was hit and none of us saw any signs of one afterward."

The survivors arrived at the army base in Brooklyn aboard the naval auxiliary vessel Alorab. A number of men, whose names were withheld, were transferred to the naval hospital and the rest were transferred to the receiving ship Seattle tied up in the North river.

No navy man can sell or even give away a uniform without special permission.

HOLIDAY LIGHTS GOING UP TODAY

Association, and both have endeavored in the planning to present a display which is more truly of a civic nature.

New Castle is fortunate that it can have a street lighting arrangement this year, for many communities will be deprived of theirs because of defense calls on the power in those sections.

Territories served by Duquesne Light Co. and the West Penn Power Co. must forego any lighting programs because defense-vital plants in those sections are requiring all the electrical energy they can get. Because it is a civic gesture of goodwill, the merchant and GNCA groups stressed today, all fields of business will be asked this year to contribute toward the expense of the lighting. The cost to all will be very nominal, if a great number contribute.

Contributions may be left with the Greater New Castle Association office in The Castleton.

LAUDS NAVY TECHNIQUE

NEW ORLEANS—Pointing to the United States navy's technique for aircraft carriers as "the best in the world," Lieutenant Commander W. D. Wright, Jr., USN, declared here that Britain's loss of two carriers was because of poor protection. Speaking at a meeting of the New Orleans Traffic Club, he said that in the case of the British carrier lost off Ireland it was "not properly protected by planes and destroyers." Of the plane carrier lost off Narvik, he said that it was tied down too long in one spot.

READING CIRCLE TOURS NEWS PLANT MONDAY

Monday afternoon, the Reading Circle members assembled in the office of the New Castle News at 2:30 for a conducted tour of the New Castle News plant.

All those present signed their names and later were given souvenirs of the occasion.

Commentary during the tour touched on the founding of the New Castle News, decoration and materials used in the present home of the paper, which was completed in 1923; and the fact that every newspaper has three parts, the editorial, the business, and the mechanical. This last was further illustrated as the party progressed through the building.

The group were shown the file room where a copy of every edition of the New Castle News is kept. They saw the huge press in action turning out the Monday edition of the paper. In the editorial room, the conductor explained how the copy for the paper is prepared and showed the teletype machines over which the International News Service despatches are received.

After seeing the composing room where the type is set, and inats and forms made up, and the stereotyping room, members of the club were taken down to see the New Castle News come off the press ready for distribution.

On December 8, Mrs. Richard Rentz will be hostess to the Reading Circle for its Christmas program with Mrs. W. E. Ferver in charge. Members plan to bring gifts for the Neighborhood House to this meeting.

Mrs. James C. Lewis, of Edison avenue, this city, was among the guests at a tea given recently by Mrs. Arthur H. James, first lady of Pennsylvania.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph.D.

RATION CHILDREN SNACK MEALS

When children come home from school, they may be very hungry. Many of us have memories of the fruit, cookies or doughnuts we enjoyed at these times. Most parents gladly provide such eatables for their children.

Obviously there needs to be some regulation. In case the youngster eats much then, he may "spoil his appetite for supper. Besides, if there are no restrictions, the cost in money and trouble can become excessive.

Often the child will bring one or several playmates with him, who are also hungry; and you certainly would not want your child to eat in their presence without sharing with them. While sharing is wholesome, none of them may do much real sharing; all may consume as much as they like.

Bad Moral Effect

Provided this becomes a regular practice, the moral effect won't be good for your child or his playmates. If, for example, he hands out to them a whole basket of fruit, he will feel undue power and suppose he can buy their favors with the food. They, in turn, become parasites on your family larder, with moral harm to them.

If, on the contrary, the amount of food or fruit he may have for this purpose be limited, he will learn some self-denial, in order to share. Suppose, for instance he be allowed only two apples and there be four children in the group. Then he will have occasion to allow himself at most only half an apple, even though he might prefer the two.

Inconvenient for Parents

Often, in the refrigerator or elsewhere, there may be a cake, pie or pudding meant for dessert at the evening meal. Should the child and his playmates, without first knowing that they may eat all or most of this food, see the inconvenience to the family later. The results also are morally bad for the children.

Yet it does little good to scold and explode emotionally over such matters after the damage has been done. Let there be definite planning beforehand, so the child knows what he may or may not have and how much. Most of all, he needs to learn that, unless he has been told he may have a certain food, he must not take it or give it to others. Let him learn that when there is any doubt at all, he must leave the food alone. Some such regulations would prevent many needless inconveniences and annoyances to parents and will have a wholesome effect on the child.

A selected list of books on manners, for children and parents, may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th St., New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Should a child see his parent when dead?

A. As a rule, no. One wonders why anybody else should. We want the bereft child to have as pleasant memories of his deceased parent as possible. I wish children kept away from funerals and that older ones would not be urged to go against their will.

Question: Please set me straight on the following: (1) How should I hold the spoon and the fork when taking food from a serving dish? (2) Should I push my chair back after leaving the dinner table? (3) What about holding out the little finger when lifting a cup? (4) How should the napkin be left after dinner?—C. K.

Answer: Always hold the fork in your left hand and the spoon in your right. (2) After rising from a dining table, do not push your chair back under the table. Let it remain where it is after you have risen, unless, of course, you are dining at home where everyone takes care of himself and there is no servant or waiter to attend to this. (3) Always hold your two fingers, allowing your remaining ones to point toward the palm of your hand. Never dangle them in midair. (4) When dining out, place your napkin, unfolded, on the table after you have finished using it.

What's What At A Glance

Wickard Has Plans To Halt Depression
Believes Advanced Planning Will Do It Believes Worry Over Future Harmful Now

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Agricultural Secretary Claude R. Wickard distinctly isn't one of those who believe we should concentrate on military production so intensively, at present, as to do no advance thinking concerning post-war economics.

A good many critics are of the opinion that worry as to the future distracts us from all-our defensive and lease-lending efforts and that worrying does not do us a particle of good, anyway because a subsequent depression's absolutely inevitable. So what's the use, they argue, in stewing about it now, when we've got more urgent matters to attend to?

Claude disagrees with 'em completely. His thesis is that, while it's mighty hard to cure a depression after it's started, preventive medicine can keep it from starting.

The thing to do is to have the things ready to administer ahead of the initial slump that now's the time to be concocting it and that it can be done without in the least hampering defensive and lease-lend activity.

He makes out a pretty good case in support of his contention that the farmers, on the average, are materially better off, due to what the government's done for 'em and what the same system adopted for what he's convinced will be to industry's advantage.

As to agriculture, experts of Claude's department first figure out how much crops, the farmers will be able to market after producing 'em, and tells 'em what they should grow, each of 'em, or raise, if it's livestock. If there's a bit of an excess after the harvest, Uncle Sam takes it off the ruralites' hands, so that they're not stuck with it. He stores this surplus, which he can come out by degrees if there chances to be a shortage the next time.

It appears that it really does tend to stabilize things.

For Factories, Too?

Factories, Secretary Wickard maintains, ought to be similarly supervised, and protected against loss if they do somewhat overdo themselves.

In that way, he reasons, there'd be a definitely determinable volume of employment constantly—urban as well as rural. From year to year there might be more or less fluctuation, but Claude's notion is to take care of this by having a big program of public work (roads, forestry, water facilities and miscellaneous improvements) always on hand, to be expanded or contracted to suit changing conditions.

This public work idea isn't altogether new. President Hoover originally evolved it as a remedy for the ills of depression. It wasn't worked out in sufficient preliminary detail to accomplish much relief then, though. A lot of departmental building was done in Washington, to be sure, and post offices were erected all over the country, but advance planning hadn't been done elaborately enough to make a total impression of any consequence on hard times of such proportions.

Advance planning is what Secretary Wickard's clamoring for.

Claude also favors industry's decentralization—plenty of smallish scattered plants in preference to their concentration in huge factories in our biggest cities.

Opponents of his scheme object to it on the ground that it calls for an undemocratically complicated network of controls—regimentation, subversive of free enterprise. Even if it would work, they're hostile to everlasting national prosperity involving such governmental regulation.

Vantage Point Weak

Claude's handicap is that he has to express himself from the not very favorable vantage point of the agriculture department. It's all very well for him to speak from there relative to farm prosperity, but it isn't just the place for him to discuss what he considers best for post-emergency urban industry.

"What the heck," demanded the industrialists, "does he know about our problems?"

He's set up an intra-departmental committee, though, to draft his plan in detail, and it's hard at it, whether or not such cabinet groups as Treasury Secretary Morgenthau and Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones' do consider that industry and finance (except the agricultural kind) are none of Claude's business.

Claude's giving out press releases on the subject, too. If he can prevent a post-war depression and all later depressions, for evermore, he's going to do it.

FIRST SNOWFALL
Soon will come the snow, and we That day slower-paced will be.

Who is first to rise will find All his pathways beauty-lined, And will marvel in one night There could grow so fair a sight.

In the city soon must fade Beauty's heels the heels of trade Workers first to hurry out Plough and kick the snow away, And the wheels of business tear Furrows through it everywhere.

But beyond where country life Suffers less from haste and strife, Beauty lingers, near and far, Hidden deep in every scar, And the poorest stretch of space Wears the master's touch of grace.

Would such snow could come to men At the year's end now, and then, Covering all the scars of time With a mantle so sublime: Making all men fair to see, Even as the humblest tree.

THE APPIGRAMS

by ERICH BRANDEIS

A New York stock broker brought a package of love letters from his wife into court to prove that he had not been cruel to her as she alleged in her divorce suit.

One of the letters read in part: "I miss you so. I love you, sweetheart. You are my happiness and I long for you with every fibre of my being."

Very soon after this letter, the broker alleged, she bought 56 pieces of lingerie, 29 dresses, 4 fur coats, 16 suits, 12 blouses, 47 pairs of shoes, 14 hats, 19 playsets, 22 sweaters, 26 pairs of gloves, 56 pairs of hose, 26 corsets—and when he refused to let her charge any more, she left him.

To some people love is a department store; it's bankrupt when the cash register stops clicking.

The World and the Mud Puddles

GAMBLING

The human is a gambler. He gambles at everything. The average individual, when gambling is mentioned, thinks only of the games of poker, dice, roulette, horse racing, the stock market and all that sort of thing. He never stops to think that a merchant cannot buy anything with the idea of selling the same at a profit, without the gambling element entering into the proposition.

There is only one State in the United States where gambling is not declared a crime. That State is Nevada. As a matter of fact, Nevada is the one State in this Union where the citizens have more personal freedom than any other State. It is a State that has not resorted to high taxes in order to provide employment for a host of political "healers."

As a matter of fact, laws against gambling enable the police of American cities to become great grafters. Gambling houses exist throughout the breadth of the land, and the question often arises—what does constitute a gambling house? Does it mean that the citizen is keeping a gambling house every time he entertains friends at Bridge, where one-twentieth of a cent a point is the modest stake of the game?

The game of pin ball is a very favorite game in public places today. Two police officers recently called at a store where there was a pin ball machine and started to play. It is alleged that they spent more than two dollars in the process and won one free game which entitled them to a five-cent cigar. Thereupon they arrested the proprietor and charged him with running a gambling house. This happened in the State of Connecticut and the Supreme Court of that State ruled that there was no evidence that the prisoner kept a place resorted to for the purpose of gambling, merely because on one occasion a gambling device was used there. The Court went on to say:

"Ordinarily, the use of a place to render it a gambling house must be frequent, customary, common or habitual. A single act of gaming is insufficient to constitute it a gambling house. The word 'keeping' implies a repetition or succession of similar acts."

The Court added that there is no time limit as to how long a place must be kept, whether for a week, a day, an hour, or a minute. The single instance of gaming in this case was insufficient to establish that duration which must be proved to establish the keeping of a place resorted to for the purpose of gambling.

Try This Old Home-Mixed Cough Relief. Surprising!

Child Could Make It. No Cooking. Big Saving. You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, and in just a moment, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it can't be beaten.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Freight Handlers Tie Up Shipments

Result Of Strike

Seek Basis For Quick Settlement Of Strike In Midwest

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Nov. 25—Company and union officials met in Chicago today to seek a basis for quick settlement of the strike of 2,300 APL freight handlers for midwest trucking firms.

The handlers went on strike yesterday, demanding a pay increase from 55 to 75 cents an hour and charging that negotiators for the trucking firms had been "stalling" in contract talks.

Also involved in the dispute are the demands of 250,000 truck drivers in 11 central states, who seek pay raises from 3 cents to 5 cents a mile. Mediation of the drivers' demands is to begin in Washington Dec. 2.

The strikers cushioned the effect of their walkout by agreeing to deliver perishable goods and to prevent any delay in the transit of defense materials.

Second Phase Of Battle Rages

No Conclusion As Yet To "Annihilation" Phase Of Libyan Clash

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 25—British authorities announced today that the Libyan battle still is raging and that its second phase—"annihilation" of the enemy and prevention of his escape—has not yet reached a conclusion.

Military circles said continuous and hard fighting is proceeding on the western desert and that the battle is "very confused."

The fighting was pictured as "proceeding in every direction" and authorities declared that meanwhile no positive information can be given regarding prisoners captured, tank losses or other details.

At the same time British authorities declared the London government "warmly approves" of American occupation of the Dutch Guinean Baixite mines.

Approved by Britain

They added any step the United States takes to secure the most vital materials for her security and interests will be "warmly approved by Great Britain."

Authorities commented that adherence of Finland and other new states to the Anti-Comintern pact had been "noted in London."

It was recalled significantly that the British government still has under consideration the Russian request for a British declaration of war against Finland and other nations aiding Germany in the war against Russia.

Authorities reiterated the government regards the Finnish adherence to the pact as highly significant but that it still is too soon to state whether there will be a British declaration of war against the Finns.

At the moment, they said, the entire situation remains "under consideration."

About 50,000 tons of waste paper are being salvaged in England each week, according to the Department of Commerce.

British Delay Is Under Fire

Former Head Of "Commandos" Scores Failure To Take Initiative

SAYS OPPORTUNITY IS BEING MISSED

By LOWELL BENNETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 25—The man responsible for development and training of Britain's "Commandos" whose most recent raid on the French Coast has just been officially revealed, delivered a blistering attack against alleged "procrastination" of the British War Office in a speech to the House of Commons today.

Particularly attacked was the failure of the war office to sanction and carry out "amphibious" action overseas—such as a large scale invasion of the continent of Europe. He is Admiral Sir Roger Keyes, hero of the Zeebrugge raid in the World War who offered personally to lead a successful full-scale expedition to Norway in this one.

Sir Roger was dropped five weeks ago as commander-in-chief of the "Commandos." He took occasion today to charge that the British War office is missing opportunity after opportunity.

His duties as chief of the Commandos, Keyes said, "included raising, organizing and training the men as well as ships and naval personnel associated with them."

"My responsibilities terminated five weeks ago," he said. "I was informed that the Commandos are being handed over to the army."

"The Premier and I were keen to act vigorously in the face of hazards to achieve great results, which if we had been allowed to carry them out might have electrified the world and altered the whole course of the war."

Editor's Note: Interviewed in the lobby of the House after his speech, Keyes declined to augment this statement. "I shall be unable publicly to elucidate it during the war," he said.

Nature's effort to keep us thin is automatic. The more we eat, the harder it is to get close to the table.

Athletic teams at the Naval Academy wear rayon shirts so that they will get suntanned.

Resignation Of Retired Judge Accepted Today

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—President Roosevelt today accepted the resignation of Judge J. Warren Davis, retired, of Philadelphia, who served on the bench of the third circuit court of appeals.

Several weeks ago Attorney General Francis Biddle asked the house judiciary committee to bring impeachment proceedings against Judge Davis, who although retired, was drawing a $12,000 yearly salary.

The jurist had stood trial twice on charges growing out of the bankruptcy proceedings of William Fox, movie magnate, although both juries had disagreed. Davis' resignation reached the White House on Monday, and is effective immediately.

Curtain Rises At 8:30 O'Clock For Grand Opera

Two Famous Operas Will Be Given In The Cathedral
This Evening

TWO NEW CASTLE
ARTISTS PERFORM

Tonight is grand opera night in New Castle.

On the stage of The Cathedral, starting promptly at 8:30 o'clock, two of the greatest operas ever written, "Cavalleria Rusticana," (rustic chivalry) and "Pagliacci" (Punchinello), will be presented by the Venice Opera Company of New York.

There is more than passing interest in the attractions due to the fact that Tobe Fenati, former New Castle high football star, and Gula Keagy, a well known New Castle contralto, will sing and dramatize feature roles.

Fenati, who will make his debut in the grand opera world tonight, enacts the difficult role of Canio in "Pagliacci."

Gula Keagy, who has gained prominence in grand opera circles, the concert stage and has appeared on numerous radio programs, plays the leading role of Lola in "Cavalleria Rusticana."

The casts are augmented by some of the greatest grand opera performers in the country. Gertrude Ribla, as Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rusticana," is recognized as one of the best dramatic sopranos in this country. The Jewish artist has gained recognition everywhere she has appeared.

Parachutist Lands In Brooklyn Yard

U. S. Army Corporal Obeys
What He Thought Was
"Leap Order"

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—"Orders is orders!"—and with that curt army explanation and a shrug of his shoulders, Corporal Al Moxley today explained how he happened to leap out of a training ship over New York City last night.

The 24-year-old corporal, who parachuted to safety in a crowded residential section of Brooklyn, said he went over the side when the motor went dead and when his pilot, Lieut. John A. Kelting, pointed downward in a "leap" signal.

But . . .
A disconcerted Kelting gave a different explanation. He said he was intrigued by the lights of New York City, and "so I shut off the engine so the corporal could hear me, and then I pointed down and told him to look."

"The next thing I knew," he added, "Corporal Moxley had bailed out."

Moxley, who hails from Bristol, Tenn., and who is attached to the 60th Pursuit Squadron at Mitchell Field, N. Y., came to a landing when his parachute caught in the cornice of a two-story house.

Surprised residents, who unhooked the parachute belt and helped the dangling Moxley through a window, took him to a police station where he was treated for slight scratches of the leg. Then the young corporal left for Michel Field for an "explanation."

News Briefs From City Hall

Michigan police authorities Monday returned to Ann Arbor one Carl Kollmeyer of that place wanted for alleged forgery. He was caught here by Lieutenant of Police J. P. Steiner and Carl Wallace and waived extradition, according to police records.

Chief of Detectives R. A. Criswell stated today that clues were lacking as to the identity of the persons who burglarized the Blair and Hawkins residences, Moody avenue, Sunday night.

Leonard Suskin, Stanley Shephard, Edward Skalkicky, John Fugitt and Harrison Seamore were arrested Monday by Patrolmen Robert Hanna and George Price on a charge of violating a city ordinance in taking magazine subscriptions without first having registered with police. Each paid a fine of $5.00 and Suskin paid an additional $5.00 for asserted disorderly conduct in police court today.

City detectives are conducting an exhaustive investigation into the accident that befell Frank L. Porter in West Washington street, Saturday night. According to the detectives Porter was struck by three automobiles near the P. R. R. bridge. He was hit by one, knocked into the path of another and then another car struck the man, according to their reports. He is in the Jameson Memorial hospital.

A. C. Dietterle has been given a permit by the city bureau of building to build a frame addition to a house at 105 East Laurel avenue.

Widening and elimination of the State street hill curve will begin Wednesday according to City Engineer Glenn R. Throop.

PICKPOCKETS REFORM

(International News Service)
LONDON—Britain's pickpocket are either going straight or adopting new methods. According to Post Office statistics the number of wallets and pocket books found in letter boxes has greatly declined. Before the war, apparently, it was quite a popular method of getting rid of the evidence by slipping the purse or wallet into any convenient mail box.

Near Climax In Carolinas Battle

Members Of 28th Move Up To Front Line Of Blue Army
Shortly Before Dawn

(International News Service)
SOMEWHERE IN THE CAROLINAS, Nov. 25—Pennsylvania's 28th division moved up to the front line of the Blue army before dawn today to face red army forces across an east-west international boundary as the "battle of the Carolinas" neared its climax.

The "over-the-top" order found the "iron" division racing full speed on a 15-mile dash to its first objective, a town situated strategically on the boundary line between the opposing armies.

Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drum again was in command of the first army which consisted of eight divisions, while Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold's fourth army corps, aided by two-hitting armored divisions, was arrayed against him.

The 107th field artillery and the 28th signal company, comprised almost entirely of western Pennsylvania soldiers, were used as shock troops in the simulated war maneuvers, while the division's anti-tank units deployed on the flanks.

The only change in this week's battle was in Gen. Drum's forces. The blue army was granted air support from medium bombers which were assigned to the red army forces last week.

Motorcyclist Hurt Near Harlansburg

Hiram Stamm, Erie, motorcyclist, sustained lacerations of the chin and bruises of the hips in an effort to avoid a crash with a dump-truck operated by Paul Womer, Portersville, R. D., on Route 19, at the intersection of legislative route, 37044, near Harlansburg, at 5:45 p. m. Monday.

Both were proceeding in the same direction. The motorcycle started to turn left. The signals on the truck were not operating. Womer claimed he signalled with his hand. Stamm steered his motorcycle toward the legislative route, struck a gully, the machine overturned and he was hurt, according to motor police.

Trade Unionism Is Now 'Big Business' Magazine Asserts

'Steel' Estimates Total Income Of Nation's Trade Unions At $250,000,000 Annually

(International News Service) CLEVELAND, Nov. 25.—With an estimated yearly income of $250,000,000 trade unionism has become "Big Business" according to the magazine Steel.

At the end of 1940, the three major unions had a membership of about 9,000,000 with the American Federation of Labor claiming 4,247,443, the Congress of Industrial Organizations 4,000,000 and the Railroad Brotherhoods approximately 500,000. That figure has risen sharply during the first six months of this year, the magazine maintained.

Employers striving for uninterrupted production for defense, are granting many concessions to unions whose only problem Steel stated, is their own internecine warfare. The AFL reported a 1940 income of $198,483, including a $629,499 carryover from 1939. Steel declared the income figure was "a drop in the bucket as the parent union receives only a small portion of the local's revenue."

CIO Fails to Report CIO failed to report a 1939 income, the magazine said acting on "advice of counsel."

CIO dues and initiation fees ordinarily are considerably lower than those of AFL, for two reasons: Craft Union members in the AFL contain a higher percentage of skilled workers who receive higher wages and are able to pay higher dues and fees; AFL craft unions often have mutual insurance plan which necessitated higher charges Steel pointed out.

Although CIO dues may be lower, the AFL charges much higher initiation fees, such as $500 for truckers in Seattle, $1,000 for motion picture operators in Cleveland and $1,500 for glaziers in Chicago. Steel said the CIO, in launching new unions in fields already organized by AFL, advertises its low initiation fee.

Housing Problem Soon To Confront Conneaut Lake

(Special To The News)

CONNEAUT LAKE, Nov. 25.—The small borough of Conneaut Lake, destined to be the base of operations for officials and workmen at the $40,000,000 Government supervised, TNT plant soon to be constructed in southwestern Crawford county, is faced with the difficult problem of housing a large share of the 11,000 workers (and their families), estimated as necessary for completion of the factory within the stipulated 10-month period.

The town of Conneaut Lake, widely known as a summer amusement resort, is but three miles north of the 16,000-acre reservation to be utilized by the United States War Department as the location for its newest National Defense project. Appraisal and optioning of land is already underway in the huge tract, and a d-branch from Washington Saturday morning notified Conneaut Lake borough officials that construction contracts had just been let.

The Government plant, which will be known officially as the Keystone Ordnance Works, will confine its facilities entirely to the production of trinitrotoluene—a highly explosive material used in shells. It will occupy an area of approximately 25 square miles, directly south of Conneaut Lake.

We forget about rights when we get on top. Americans fought about taxation without representation, yet people in Washington itself can't vote.

Plan Instructors First Aid Course

Red Cross Will Give Advanced Training In First Aid In Near Future

Harry J. Culliford, chairman of first aid of the Lawrence county chapter American Red Cross announces an instructor's course under the National Red Cross first aid department, early in the year. In making this announcement at this date will give all those holding the standard and advanced certificates, these people are requested to immediately contact the chapter office and make arrangements to complete the required training. No one can take the instructor's course who has not an up-to-date standard and advanced certificate.

"The finest way to carry on civilian defense is to be prepared," stated Mr. Culliford. "After all, one cannot safely say there is no need for this training. The National Defense Council has felt it of such importance that the Red Cross has been designated as the organization to carry on this phase of defense. The Lawrence county chapter offers this training as its part in the national program," concluded Mr. Culliford.

Grieve Sharing Army Maneuvers

New Castle Soldier Is Taking Part In Army Games In South

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Grieve, of 21 Smithfield street, have received word from their son, Private George Grieve, attached to the 49th Infantry, now at Fort Bragg, N. C., in maneuvers.

He states that a few mornings ago, at 8 o'clock, he saw something he will never forget. It was a thousand parachutists descending to "attack" the army airport nearby.

George says the weather there is better than it was in Georgia, just like our July weather. He now has a needle and some thread, which is a great help to keep his clothes in order.

He ate his Thanksgiving dinner in company with quite a number of New Castle "boys," among them a close friend, Jimmy Rote, of Patterson avenue. It seemed like home. He mentioned the menu, and pronounced the meal wonderful: a big hunk of turkey, mashed potatoes, gravy, cranberry sauce, peas, corn, celery, jello, nuts, oranges, apples, pineapple, pie, cake, candy, and a cigar each.

Mrs. Grieve has the "News" sent to her son and George said that while he has been moved around several times during the last couple months, the "News" failed to reach him for two weeks, and he seemed "lost" without it. All the New Castle boys are eager to see the paper.

Members Of 28th Dine On Turkey, During Maneuvers

Thanksgiving Dinner Somewhat Late But Thoroughly Enjoyed

(International News Service) HEADQUARTERS, 28th Division, Gilaad, N. C., Nov. 25.—While their commanding officers attended a military critique at Wingate, Pennsylvania's 28th division marked time Monday pending reopening of the large-scale maneuvers in the Carolinas.

The division was bivouaced in the deep pine woods, miles from any habitation, but that did not deter the boys from enjoying roast turkey and all the trimmings in their Thanksgiving dinner yesterday.

A heavy rain, the first since the big maneuvers started six weeks ago, and the fact that they had to eat in the field, did not spoil the soldiers' appetites. They enjoyed turkey—a pound per man—mashed potatoes, creamed peas, giblet gravy, ice cream, pie and assorted fruits and coffee.

Lt. Col. Fred R. Houghton, division chaplain, held Thanksgiving services for the men, and a special memorial service for Private Charles H. Mitchell of Uniontown, Pa., who was killed in an accident during a "blackout" last Wednesday.

Bareheaded, everyone from Maj. Gen. Edward Martin down to the last buck private, stood in a driving rain while the chaplain pronounced benediction for their departed comrade. An army board of inquiry has been named to investigate Mitchell's death.

He was a member of the 28th division military police, and was killed when his light truck, carrying three "prisoners" to the rear, crashed in the darkness. Reports said that the prisoners, who are on their word of honor not to try to escape, did escape after the accident.

Claim Guffey Foiled Program

Failure Of Reapportionment Blamed On Senator By Republicans

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Nov. 25.—U. S. Sen. Joseph F. Guffey was blamed by Republicans for the failure of the bi-partisan legislative committee to agree on reapportionment of the state's congressional districts.

State Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, Dauphin Republican, charged Pennsylvania's junior senator with exerting his influence on the five Democratic members by "remote control." Hinting that this committee had reached an impasse and would not be able to draft a redistricting plan despite the fact that the state's 258 legislators have been asked to approve one of five plans, Taylor said that efforts to strike an agreement within committee were rebuffed by the Democrats.

Taylor asserted that at last week's meeting the conferees had approved a plan to merge Somerset county with the 18th district and switch Fayette county to the bordering 25th district.

Guffey Spoiled Move
He claimed the committee had "positively reached an agreement."

Nov. 18 but that the following morning the Democrats "said it was all a mistake." Taylor stated: "What happened between Tuesday night and Wednesday morning was that the senator in Washington—through remote control—exerted his influence on the Democratic members of the committee not to accept the plan agreed upon by ourselves."

His actions just muddled the waters. We were appointed to do a job. The Republican members of the committee attended the meetings with no strings attached. But the Democrats were not negotiating for themselves. Every move they made apparently had to have the approval of the senator in Washington."

Unless Pennsylvania's 34-member congressional delegation is reduced by one, the members must run on an at-large basis in 1942.

War Contract Suit Is Filed

Former Undersecretary Of The Interior Seeks To Collect $687,000

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—A war contract suit for $687,000 has been filed against a new armaments firm by former Undersecretary of the Interior Charles West, it was learned today.

West, friend of President Roosevelt and former Ohio congressman, claims to have obtained war orders totaling $700,000 for the Empire Ordnance Corp., a Delaware corporation.

The company, he charges, engaged him as "business consultant and adviser" a year ago, with the agreement he was to receive a fee of one per cent of the gross of all contracts he obtained.

His suit, on file in federal court here, declares this would entitle him to $700,000, of which only $13,000 has been paid him. He seeks to recover the balance.

West also asserts that an additional arrangement was made last March whereby he was to get $1,000 a month against earnings. This was paid him in March, April and May, he declares.

Examinations before trial are expected to start in the near future. The company claims that the $700,000 estimate of its contracts made "on information and belief" by West is excessive.

Empire Ordnance was formed after the outbreak of the present war by Empire Securities, Inc., in which Elisha Walker is heavily interested. Walker is the Wall St. partner of the international banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

Governor James May Call Session To Reduce Taxes

Intimates That Session Might Be Called During Next Summer

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Nov. 25.—Gov. Arthur H. James intimated he might call a special session of the legislature next summer to reduce taxes.

In reply to a letter from Democratic Floor Leader Leo A. Achtermann demanding a special session for settlement of congressional reapportionment and reduction of taxes, the governor brushed aside redistricting and averred Achtermann's "other problem could be just as easily settled next summer."

Governor James indicated he might have something to say late today concerning Achtermann's prediction of a $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 surplus for the 1941-43 biennium and his request for a special session before the end of the year.

He reminded Democratic legislators he has already given assurances that tax reduction would not be included in a call for a special session to deal with reapportionment.

President Will Receive Reports On Rail Strike

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—President Roosevelt today receives the reports of railroad management and labor on the outcome of negotiations to avert a general strike, called for Dec. 7.

A day of conferences between railroad management and the operating and non-operating unions, brought forth no statement on progress of the negotiations. But a spokesman for one of the larger brotherhoods interpreted the day's events as pointing to a "deadlock" with another labor crisis being dumped on President Roosevelt's desk.

After lengthy conferences with railroad management, spokesmen for both the brotherhoods declared that there would be no further talks until they had reported to the White House. Neither of the two labor representatives would state categorically whether agreement, or a basis for further discussions had been reached.

Senator Wagner Urges Compromise In Labor Battles

Initiator Of National Labor Relations Act Calls On Labor And Industry To Compromise

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Senator Robert F. Wagner, initiator of the national labor relations act, on Monday called on both labor and industry to compromise their disputes in the interest of national defense.

In his first public address in 10 months, the New York Democrat urged that labor be given an equal place with industry in "planning, policy-making and actual administration" of the defense program.

Advancing a program for avoiding disruption of industries such as was caused by the CIO strike in the captive coal mines, Sen. Wagner said Congress should strengthen machinery for voluntary mediation.

"The recent coal trouble has revealed the need for additional specific machinery during the defense period to help settle the differences which arises periodically in industrial relations," he declared.

"Certain types of disputes cannot be handled effectively by voluntary mediation," Wagner asserted. "These controversies should be handled by another agency on terms of voluntary arbitration."

There should immediately be established, the New York senator declared, "by co-operation of labor and industry, an emergency board for voluntary arbitration to handle all such cases promptly."

Criticizing both sides in the captive mine industry, Wagner placed the blame on the steel industry for provoking the conflict, but found John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, at fault for carrying the issue to a strike.

Sen. Wagner spoke in a nationwide radio address from his home, where he is recovering from a long illness.

BIRTHDAYS OF FAMOUS AMERICANS

NOVEMBER 25
1835—Andrew Carnegie, manufacturer and philanthropist, at Dunfermline, Scotland. He was founder and organizer of the United States Steel corporation. After beginning his career as a bobbin-boy in a cotton mill, he started the Keystone Bridge Works, built a steel rail mill, and then bought the Homestead Steel Works. By 1888 he had under his control an extensive plant, including coal and iron fields, a railway 425 miles long, and a line of lake steamers. The United States Steel corporation was organized in 1901.

1860—Bliss Perry, author, at Williamstown, Mass. He became professor of English literature at Harvard in 1907 and was editor of the Atlantic Monthly for 10 years. Although he wrote fiction, he is chiefly known as an essayist and critic. His autobiographical "And Gladly Teach" appeared in 1935.

1869—Benjamin Barr Lindsey, judge, at Jackson, Tenn. He was instrumental in securing the passage of the Colorado juvenile court law in 1899, which gradually changed the whole system of dealing with juvenile offenders in Denver. The change included the establishment of the juvenile court conducted solely in the interest of children. He was judge of that court from 1900 until 1927. As a result of his work in Colorado he is known as "the father of the juvenile court."

Johnson Paintings Are Being Shown At San Francisco

An exhibit of painting by Winifred Johnson—in private life Countess Maurice de Bosdari—opens today in the San Lucas galleries, San Francisco, California, according to announcements received here by acquaintances of the artist, who is the daughter of Mrs. Grace Phillips Johnson, of Moody avenue.

Although Miss Johnson has also done much work in still-life, portrait, and landscape, for her San Francisco debut she has chosen to exhibit nursery paintings of children and toys in cheerful color effects keyed to the nursery theme.

Miss Johnson has 31 canvases on display at this showing of her work which is scheduled for the San Lucas galleries until December 15.

Germany Scores U. S. Occupation

(International News Service) BERLIN, Nov. 25.—American occupation of Dutch Guiana represented "the first United States military attack on South America," the semi-official publication Dienst Aus Deutschland charged today.

"The United States want to get near a bridgehead to Natal and Dakar," the publication said.

Berlin newspapers attacked the occupation as "another Roosevelt Gangster Act."

Metropolitan Areas Extend

Proportion Of Population In Easy Access To Large Cities Is On Increase

(Special To The News)
STATE COLLEGE, Nov. 25.—The proportion of Pennsylvania's population living within easy access of large cities continues to increase despite back-to-the-land movements. All except 2 of Pennsylvania's 11 officially defined metropolitan districts of the sixteenth census had more residents in 1940 than 10 years earlier, says H. R. Cottam, rural sociologist of the Pennsylvania State College.

Growth of metropolitan districts is not reflected in larger numbers of people in the central cities of these districts, but in an increase in the open country surrounding the cities. Only 6 of the 11 districts had population increases within the central cities, the largest of these being 4 per cent. Outside of the central cities, however, 9 districts had more inhabitants in 1940, the highest gain during the decade being 23 per cent. That most of this suburban growth took place in the open country is indicated by enormous gains in unincorporated areas but only moderate increases in small incorporated places located within the metropolitan districts. These observations are based upon 1940 census figures adjusted to take account of changes in legal boundaries of incorporated places.

The Philadelphia and Pittsburgh total metropolitan districts each increased about 2 per cent in population, although the city of Philadelphia decreased 11 per cent and the city of Pittsburgh barely held its own. The growth in the Philadelphia metropolitan district is explained by a 113 per cent increase in open-country residents and a 3 per cent addition to nearby incorporated places. The comparable gains in the Pittsburgh district were 1 per cent in the country and 6 per cent in the boroughs.

Largest increases in the state occurred in the three neighbor metropolitan districts, Harrisburg, Lancaster, and York where the total gains were 7, 7, and 6 per cent respectively. Again it was not the cities but the open-country which accounted for the growth of the districts. City increments were 4, 2, and 3 per cent respectively while unincorporated places grew 21, 14 and 23 per cent. Small incorporated places were augmented 4, 9, and 2 per cent respectively.

AROUND CITY HALL

City Engineer Glenn R. Throop is searching for a steam shovel operator and if he can find one the proposed State street hill widening job will be launched immediately. He reported to city officials today. Throop asserted DuShane street has been paved, opened and he has a supply of men for the State street job which has been advocated for a year or more as a means of minimizing the possibility of accidents.

Council has a difficult and tedious task ahead, the 1942 budget. The present tax millage is 10½, divided as follows: for general revenue, 8½ mills, Library one-half mill and Sinking fund, 1½ mills. This is a one-half cut from the millage of 1940, the saving having been in the Sinking fund which was two mills. In the six years preceding 1940, the millage was 11½.

According to James L. Fink, finance director, he has no inkling as to what the 1942 millage may be. As yet he has not been acquainted with the desires or needs of other councilmen. Until this information is received and an estimate made of anticipated receipts it will be impossible for the finance director to voice any opinion as to whether the millage will go up, remain status quo, or drop.

Practically all departments have requested an increase in wages. So far salons have not gone into the requests; at least, not during a formal council meeting. The employees presented their petitions prior to any budget sessions and when the council do sit down around the table and take their pencils in hand they will know the exact wants of the city government employees.

There is agitation in the department of police to acquire the large room formerly used by fire equipment; that is in the days of No. 2 or Central in East Street. There are three automobiles and one police patrol motor housed in the police barn. Whenever a car enters, it must be maneuvered most expertly to find a stall. When backed from the garage into East Street there always exists the possibility it will ram some civilian's car, in which case, if traffic is not blocked off during the move out, the city may face a damage suit. Should the police acquire the room at the corner of Sycamore and East streets and a portion of the wall separating the two rooms, removed, it would enable the police to have a front drive in and out and eliminate possibility of an accident.

Police will have some of their traffic woes solved and bus riders will not be delayed journeying to and from their employment places after the inauguration of bus service here, anticipated December 11. Many times a month automobiles park too far from the curb along street car routes and street cars are stalled until police have offending autos dragged out of the way, or to a garage. Traffic to the East Side also will be aided, especially up the hills where once an auto gets behind a street car it cannot make progress unless the autoist drives his vehicle against the current of traffic and if an accident occurs, he is "out of luck." The same applies to the Highland Avenue hill.

Mill and Washington Streets between 5 p. m. and 6 p. m. during the week days is one of the hottest traffic spots in the city it is high impossible for one policeman to prevent traffic jams. Cross-town traffic, because of the timing of the lights, and parked street cars, can move only about three lengths before the light changes. It might be a splendid idea for the lieutenants who are in charge of traffic, to journey to that point and ascertain if another policeman is needed or whether or not a traffic officer instead of the light, direct traffic. Now and then some truck or auto parks double. The lone officer at that point is kept busy. Perhaps an officer who could roam in Mill Street at that time could help the situation.

City council decided on Monday to inform the State Highway Department, Harrisburg, the city is willing to pay the contractor who improves Atlantic avenue for the city's share of drainage at Getty street and Atlantic avenue. However, the highway department must enter into a contract with the firm, not the city, according to the decision.

When council met Monday Councilman D. O. Davies secured colleagues consent for Fire Chief J. E. Thomas and Fireman William Bowen to attend a firemen's school in Pittsburgh where firemen will be instructed how to extinguish incendiary bombs. The school will be conducted at Carnegie Institute of Technology during the first week of December.

Because of excavating in East Washington street at East street, only the north side of Washington street is open to traffic. The Manufacturers Light & Heat company has placed traffic directors at both ends of the one-way lane and autoists should use caution in traversing that section. However, whenever a street car arrives, the workers remove the barrier to permit passage.

Will Set Ceiling For Auto Prices

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—A spokesman for the Office of Price Administration said Monday that plans are under way to set a ceiling on automobile prices—probably at present levels.

Cyrus McCormick, price executive of the automobile branch, met Monday with manufacturers, including representatives from Ford, Chrysler and General Motors, to discuss the proper price schedule.

A meeting with representative automobile dealers will be held next Monday.

Military Training Not Confined To Drilling

(Special To The News)
STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 25.—The average man's idea that military training means learning merely to tote a gun, to keep step, and to drill is false, according to Colonel Edward D. Ardery, in charge of more than 2,500 students in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at the Pennsylvania State college.

Training given to potential reserve officers is as helpful to them in civilian life as in military life, Colonel Ardery said today. "Their course provides leadership training and supplements the cultural speech training received in the various schools."

Unlike many history courses which glorify our military victories and ignore our narrow escapes, the military history taught to R. O. T. C. students points out where errors have been made and how they could have been avoided, he explained.

Students are also taught how to make an "estimate of situation," he added, in which they state an objective, list all the obstacles in the way of achieving it, formulate various possible plans, and finally select the one that is most practical. Such training is invaluable in any walk of life, Colonel Ardery believes.

"In addition, the student must learn to command himself before he can command others," he said. "He has actual experience, under

Charge Easterner With Check Forgery

A Philadelphian was lodged in the county jail today to await hearing on check forgery charges brought against him by a business firm here.

Held for a hearing Wednesday before Alderman Wallace J. Ewing was W. A. Biglow, about 35, who was charged by officials of a local store with issuing a fraudulent check for merchandise amounting to $84.60 last January.

The easterner had been held by Luzerne county authorities for Constable Frank C. Conner, who went to Wilkes-Barre last week when the state motor police teletype notified him he was ready for release there.

Darkness Is Factor In Walker's Deaths

Approaching Drivers Cannot See Pedestrians As Far As Sometimes Thought

Belief by pedestrians walking on highways that approaching drivers can see them from a considerable distance away is a fallacy which causes great numbers of deaths and injuries to walkers, B. N. Hanlon, Manager of the New Castle Motor Club, declared today.

"Darkness with resulting poor visibility for both drivers and pedestrians is so significant a traffic hazard that two of three pedestrian deaths occur during hours of darkness," Mr. Hanlon said.

"A recent study in New Zealand where the problem of night pedestrian deaths is acute as it is everywhere that automobiles are used, confirms findings of the A. A. A. in its three year nation-wide study of pedestrian protection. This New Zealand experiment of the Psychological Laboratory, University of Otago, was to investigate the beliefs of pedestrians regarding their visibility at night to the drivers of automobiles. Preliminary observations have shown that the pedestrian greatly exaggerates his visibility. During the tests, it was found that the greatest distance a typically attired, moving pedestrian could be distinguished with reasonable certainty was approximately 320 feet. All but one of the subjects walking toward the test car thought that he was seen plainly from distances from 410 feet to 850 feet. The prevalence of serious traffic accidents involving pedestrians on the highway would coincide with the beliefs of pedestrians as shown in this experiment."

Mr. Hanlon declared that the careful pedestrian should always wear something white or tie a white handkerchief around his arm or ankle to improve visibility and assure that the approaching driver sees him in time to avoid an accident. Walking on the left side of highways, facing traffic is a "must" which saves pedestrians lives.

Red Cross Is Concerned Over Nurse Shortage

Shortage Of 10,000 Nurses Reported In October Requirements In Country

(International News Service)
BOSTON—There is a growing shortage of nurses in the United States, according to Red Cross authorities.

"What are we going to do when an epidemic comes?" Miss Betty Dumaine, Boston Metropolitan Red Cross vice chairman of volunteer service asked.

It is estimated the shortage as of October requirements is 10,000. This will increase during the winter months when the army in New England alone will require an additional 500 nurses for its expansion.

"We've heard what's happened in Europe where because there were so few trained nurses, soldiers and civilians are dying by the thousands. Typhus and typhoid are raging in Greece and because the women and girls don't know the first thing about nursing the epidemic can't be checked," Miss Dumaine said.

Urges Girls to Volunteer
Miss Dumaine suggested that girls who cannot spare three years of training required of nurses should volunteer for the Red Cross nurses aids course if they wish to aid their country.

"These 'pink ladies' are needed desperately in hospitals now to do the little things like making beds and giving baths," Miss Dumaine said.

Girl Inmate Of School Suicides

(International News Service)
GENEVA, Ill., Nov. 25.—The suicide of an 18-year-old inmate who left a note saying she "couldn't stand it any longer," was disclosed Monday by officials at the Illinois training school for girls at Joliet.

The victim was Bertha Wassmer of Joliet, Ill. Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, managing director of the school, said her body was found in her room Sunday night, hanging from a bedsheet which had been fashioned in to a noose and looped around a high window grating.

A puzzling aspect of the case was the disclosure by Mrs. Lewis that the girl would have been released on parole by Christmas.

Premier Of Japan Proclaims Nation Ready For "Glorious Duty"

SAYS JAPAN FACING GRAVE SITUATION

By PERCY WHITEING
International News Service Staff

TOKYO, Nov. 25.—Premier Hideki Tojo today proclaimed Japan's "glorious duty" to smash the difficulties facing the nation, while Tokyo newspapers fulminated once more against the United States and Soviet Russia.

Addressing the National Service Association, Tojo declared the situation confronting Japan is "unprecedentedly grave" and added: "It is the glorious duty imposed upon the Japanese to break through this difficult situation."

Ready To March
Lieut. Gen. Kishiburo, vice president of the association, declared in reply that the entire Japanese nation is now ready to "start to march at the word of command."

The newspaper Kokumin simultaneously renewed Japan's protest attacks on the United States. It said that if America insists upon depriving Japan of fulfillment of Nippon's ideals, "there is absolutely no way for a compromise between the two countries."

Kokumin deplored American Secretary of State Cordell Hull's conference with representatives of the A-B-C-D powers in Washington while special Japanese Envoy Saburo Kurusu still is in the American capital.

Demand Indemnities
The newspaper Hochi attacked Soviet Russia and demanded indemnities for loss of the Japanese steamer Keshi Maru, which was sunk in the sea of Japan by a floating mine.

"If the Soviets persist in their present attitude," Hochi said, "they must be prepared to take the consequences."

"Whether mines off Vladivostok have been placed there because the Soviets will it or whether they were placed there because of United States demands for a strengthening of anti-Japanese encirclement measures is beside the point."

"Russia must reconsider her position for the sake of far eastern peace as well as the fate of her nation."

Pittsburgh Mayor Re-Elect, Is Facing Contest In Court

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 25.—Mayor Cornelius D. Scully's re-election as chief executive of the city of Pittsburgh was headed for a court test today as a group of independent Republican leaders charged that a large part of the Nov. 4 balloting was "false and fraudulent."

Judge A. Marshall Thompson set Dec. 2 as the date for a hearing on the petition presented by Attorneys Charles B. Pritchard and James F. Malone. The petition requested the court to reject 13,500 votes, and name Harnar D. Denny, Jr., the Republican candidate, mayor.

The petition alleged that at least 2 city election boards "deliberately" violated the elections code in regard to assisting voters and certifying signatures. Most of the alleged fraud, the petition added, occurred in the first, second, third and fifth wards, which turned in decisive majorities for the incumbent Scully.

The official count announced by the elections board last week returned Scully to office by only 3,627 votes over Denny, the closest mayoralty contest in Pittsburgh history.

DECLARES FARMERS ARE HARD HIT BY AUTO TAXATION

(International News Service)

ATLANTA, Ga.—To some people an automobile may be a necessity. But to Georgia farmers, it assumes the cost of a first class luxury, according to George T. Dickson, president of the Dixie Motor Club.

Commenting on a survey made by the Club, Dickson said: "The average automobile on Georgia farms in 1940 was seven years old and had an estimated value of approximately $95. But to operate that vehicle the average farmer had to pay $64.39 in taxes in 1941 to the federal and state governments."

ROUSE YOUR LIVER BILE

Sleep Sounder—Get Up Feeling Great More Ready for A Good Day's Work
To be normal your liver should discharge about a full quart of digestion-aiding bile juices every day. A scanty flow—a slowing up—may mean the headaches, biliousness, poor digestion, that half-sick, half-alive feeling.
Snap out of it! Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts tonight. Start right in tomorrow morning and take 1 teaspoonful in a glass of water (hot or cold) half an hour before breakfast. I keep this up for 30 days. Do this and you too may know what it is to get up feeling fit and ready for a real day's work. Try Kruschen for the next 30 days and see what it means to you when bile flows freely on our guarantee of satisfaction or money refunded.

MURDER TRIAL AROUSSES TOWN

Report Diary Of Murdered Woman Cited 122 Love Affairs In Small Town

(International News Service)
FARMINGTON, Me., Nov. 25.—Husbands walked gingerly, wives were sober-faced today in this little Maine town of less than 4,000 population where the diary of pretty Florence H. Buzzell, slain in a hay field, revealed that she had had 122 love affairs, mostly with married men.

So far, Attorney General Frank I. Cowan has intimated that the jury which will try Fred G. Wheeler, the 20-year-old girl's last married lover for her murder, will hear only Wheeler's name but Farmington tensely aware of that multiple-volume diary, held its breath as Wheeler's trial opened.

Today the jury of 11 men and one woman, was taken to the field owned by Florence's brother John where three witnesses claim to have seen the girl with Wheeler before her body was found there with a bullet in the right temple.

In his opening statement Cowan told the jury:

"She was not true to him. She took up with other younger men (Wheeler is 50). He resented this

He said: 'I've spent three thousand dollars on that girl and she should use me better than this.' He said: 'If some man has to have her, I might as well be me.'

Cowan told the jury also that his three witnesses would testify that she saw Wheeler scowlingly advancing on the girl as she backed away from him, apparently frightened.

Wheeler, grey-haired and father of five children, had paid for Florence's schooling at an Augusta business school but he was only one of her beaux.

The night before her death she attended a dance with a married man and was reproached by her family.

The next day Wheeler arrived and he and Florence left the house for a stroll in the hay field. At dinner time, Florence was missing.

When her body was found Wheeler, although admitting having been in the field with her, denied that he had shot her.

TANK FORCES REINFORCED IN LIBYA BATTLES

which eventually drove off the German tanks with heavy losses.

"Meanwhile, New Zealand forces supported by British tanks are continuing their advance towards Tobruk along the general line leading from Trigh to Capuzzo.

"Throughout its course this battle has been very heavy. On both sides ground has been given and regained only after bitter fighting in which the main object has been destruction of opposing armored units.

"Tank casualties heavy on both sides, but owing to the nature of the fighting it is as yet impossible to estimate what actual losses have been inflicted and sustained.

"The British force which sailed from Tobruk has consolidated its positions which it has gained and captured over 2,000 prisoners, of which about half are Germans.

"In the frontier area more than 1,000 prisoners already have been taken in and many more are coming in.

"Meanwhile, in the southern sector of the battle area our mobile forces from Girabub made considerable progress and troops of the fifth infantry division captured Aguila near Jalo.

"During the day our air force maintained their air superiority, continuously bombing German forces and concentrations of mechanical transport, on which many casualties also were inflicted by low-flying fighter attacks.

"Cooperation between the army and air force continued to be of the highest order, and the assistance afforded by the royal navy has been most successful."

In the pivotal Sidi Rezegh area, tanks and infantrymen were locked in a terrific close-quarter combat that raged without cessation following occupation of Gambut by New Zealand forces.

Cairo, Nov. 25.—Reinforcements for the German Luftwaffe have arrived in Libya and a greater number of planes is to be seen at enemy airstrips, it was officially announced tonight.

Heavy artillery activity was reported on both sides, while infantry casualties around Sidi Rezegh were said to be "no more than one can expect from such a battle."

"W. L. Taylor, from Mahoning-

the depth charges threw us around

LAUNCH PUBLICITY
EFFORT TO EXTOL
FRANKLIN HIGHWAY

new publicity drive Williamson has always been chief rooster for the route.

Hear Walker, Ritzman
Others heard were J. Herbert Walker, of Harrisburg, director of tourist publicity for the State Department of Commerce who discussed "The Value of Advertising
Your Community," and Orson N.
Ritzman, secretary of the Kittaning Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the highway publicity drive.

The New Castle Motor club, ardent supporter of the highway cause since the association's founding, was represented at the meeting, presided over by Roger Jewett, executive vice president of the Greater
New Castle Association.

Defense Needs Shown
Founder Williamson, president of the group, told the committee, in
part:

"The need now is publicity! Of course, we want you to say a lot about the Benjamin Franklin highway and Route 224, but it makes little difference what we wish—thousands of maps are everywhere
and all highways are on them and
the motorist will make his choice.
You may have something—some business, some scenery, or some extraordinary industry or historical places that they will especially come to.

"We are now in the midst of a world conflagration. This democracy of ours is in the conflict
whether we wish it or not. Today isn't the time for me to discuss
the right or wrong of our leadership.
I only know that in this battle of national defense, in this conflict for ideals that stretches here and there across the world, that in handling these materials along highways in this national defense,
the highways are being pounded down. The one that may be smooth and easy today may be worn out tomorrow, and the problem of building highways instead of being finished is beginning all over again. It is almost the same problem as it was a few years ago. It is a question of rebuilding the thing that we thought was finished. Criticisms directed at our highway departments should be made very carefully, for
I do not know how in the world our engineers are going to make one dollar do where it requires five dollars."

ANTI-COMINTERN
PACT IS RENEWED

"The world front against Bolshevism"
today were Bulgaria, Denmark, Finland, Croatia, Rumania, Slovakia
and the Japanese-sponsored Nan-
king government of China.

Other nations which renewed their alliance to the treaty were Germany, Italy, Japan, Spain, Hungary
and Manchukuo.

These six nations at the chancel-
ery ceremony also signed a protocol
stating the pact had "stood its test
well" and that in the future "close cooperation is necessary against the common enemy."

"Therefore," said the protocol
"the validity of the anti-comintern
pact is prolonged five years as from
Nov. 24, 1941."

It added adherence of the seven newly-joining states will become effective upon the day the Reich receives their statements of adherence,
which must be made in writing.

The protocol also provides that the contracting powers will consult each other regarding further cooperation before expiration of the five-year extension of the pact.

partment of Commerce who discussed "The Value of Advertising

Ritzman, secretary of the Kittan-
ing Chamber of Commerce and
chairman of the highway publicity

The New Castle Motor club, ar-

since the association's founding, was represented at the meeting, presided over by Roger Jewett, executive vice president of the Greater
New Castle Association.

Defense Needs Shown
Founder Williamson, president of the group, told the committee, in
part:

"The need now is publicity! Of course, we want you to say a lot about the Benjamin Franklin highway and Route 224, but it makes little difference what we wish—
thousands of maps are everywhere
and all highways are on them and
the motorist will make his choice.
You may have something—some business, some scenery, or some extraordinary industry or historical places that they will especially
come to.

"We are now in the midst of a world conflagration. This democracy of ours is in the conflict
whether we wish it or not. Today
isn't the time for me to discuss
the right or wrong of our leadership.
I only know that in this battle of
national defense, in this conflict
for ideals that stretches here and there across the world, that in handling these materials along
highways in this national defense,
the highways are being pounded
down. The one that may be smooth
and easy today may be worn out
tomorrow, and the problem of building highways instead of being finished is beginning all over again. It is almost the same problem as it was a few years ago. It is a question of rebuilding the thing that we thought was finished. Criticisms directed at our highway departments
should be made very carefully, for
I do not know how in the world our engineers are going to make one dollar do where it requires five dollars."

ANTI-COMINTERN

"The world front against Bolshevism"
today were Bulgaria, Denmark, Fin-
land, Croatia, Rumania, Slovakia
and the Japanese-sponsored Nan-
king government of China.

Other nations which renewed their
alliance to the treaty were Germany, Italy, Japan, Spain, Hungary
and Manchukuo.

These six nations at the chancel-
ery ceremony also signed a protocol
stating the pact had "stood its test
well" and that in the future "close cooperation is necessary against the
common enemy."

"Therefore," said the protocol
"the validity of the anti-comintern
pact is prolonged five years as from
Nov. 24, 1941."

It added adherence of the seven
newly-joining states will become effective upon the day the Reich receives their statements of adherence,
which must be made in writing.

The protocol also provides that
the contracting powers will consult
each other regarding further cooperation before expiration of the five-year extension of the pact.

MRS. RAE CHAMBERS HAS MONDAY MEMBERS

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 25.—Mrs.
Rae Chambers was a pleasing hostess to members of the Monday club street.

Bridge at three tables was enjoyed with the top honor going to Mrs.
Robert Barlow who will entertain again at a Christmas party at her home, in Franklin avenue, on Monday, December 8.

The hostess was aided by her daughter, Charlotte, in serving a tempting lunch.

Y. P. COUNCIL

ing their annual custom, the

Wife To Be Eyes For Blind Mayor Elected At Akron

Believes In Common-Sense Enforcement Of All
Laws Of City

By ELLIOTT HAYES
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

AKRON, O.—Through the eyes of his wife, Sophia, George J. Harter will see to manage the municipal affairs of Akron, rubber capital of the world.

In spite of blindness that has handicapped him for 15 years, this 58-year-old legislator, labor leader and newspaperman recently defeated Lee D. Schroy, veteran Republican wheelhorse seeking a fourth two-year term as mayor.

Harter, however, is not precisely a newcomer in politics himself. He served in the state legislature as a Democrat for nine years. In 1918 he directed publicity for the United War Work Council in Chicago.

Previous to that he had been managing editor of the old Akron Times.

Opposed To Vice
Harter likes to gamble a little and thinks certain mild forms of it are fun, but has put thumbs down on organized games of chance and vice.

He says:
"I'm not going to be a blue law mayor. I believe in common sense enforcement of the law, and I don't believe in shakedowns."

Harter suffered from poor sight for years, but 15 years ago his eyes failed so that he could distinguish only light and dark. His quick, pleasant smile and kindly voice won him thousands of friends and brought him the endorsement of both AFL and CIO labor groups in his mayoralty campaign.

ANOTHER FIRST LADY
(International News Service)

COLUMBIA, Mo.—Women have just invaded another "strictly stag" affair in the person of Miss Annie Lawson, director of riding and horsemanship at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., who was selected this year as the first woman to judge at the nationally noted American Royal Horse Show at Kansas City, Mo. Judging the entire horsemanship division, Miss Lawson broke a precedent of one of the country's three top-ranking shows.

Writes Cousin Here Praising Red Cross Work

Secretary Of British Junior Red Cross Praises Work In Letter To Miss Reese

Miss Beatrice Evans, honorable secretary of the British Junior Red Cross society, 61 Crown street, Morristown, Wales, has written her cousin, Miss Katherine Reese, 329 Boyles avenue, a most interesting letter in which she speaks of the Junior Red Cross Christmas boxes.

Her letter stated:
"I thought you would like to know that among the gifts distributed after the air-raids on Swansea were those received by me from the Junior Red Cross of America. They included face-cloths, soaps, toothbrushes and pastes, toys and dolls, socks, hankies, hair-ribbons and slides, and were originally intended as Christmas gifts from the American children, but, fortunately, they arrived here at a very appropriate time. Ten thousand greeting boxes, each bearing the name of a school, were received at headquarters, and distributed as equally as possible throughout the county. I distributed my share at Siloh Chapel Rest Centre, Landore, where they were much appreciated. Beatrice Evans, Hon. Sec. Link 1163 (Swansea), British Junior Red Cross society."

Many of these boxes being distributed were filled by the Junior Red Cross of the Lawrence County chapter.

Daily Dozen

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

One's skin deserves a pat on the back, or front, top or bottom. It serves as a barrier against outside influences.

It protects from any injuries, from weather and infection. The skin is the largest and most accessible body structure.

Some diseases of the skin develop in the skin itself. Outside sources may bring on diseases of the skin.

Light and heat, plant or chemical poisons, germs and vermin. Conditions within the body may affect the skin.

These include such diseases as tuberculosis and syphilis. Some diseases of the skin are peculiar to childhood.

Others belong to adolescence and still others to adult life. Despite the skin's susceptibility it is our closest friend.

The chief trouble with America is that people can't worry about public affairs while engaged in a family fight.

BOND RESTORED
In an opinion handed down by Judge Charles H. Matthews, the action of the liquor control board in revoking the liquor license of H. E. Warneck, trading as "Lank's Cafe," is upheld, but the action of the board in confiscating the $2,000 bond is overruled and Mr. Warneck's bond ordered returned.

In his opinion Judge Matthews stated that he believed the penalty too severe and that under the evidence adduced he felt that the revocation of the liquor license was sufficient punishment.

Washington Lawyer Is Brutally Slain

(International News Service)

LEESBURG, Va., Nov. 25.—Ward Loveless, 55, prominent Washington tax attorney, was found slain Monday in his country estate, Peonian Springs, on the outskirts of Leesburg, 30 miles southwest of the nation's capital.

Commonwealth Attorney Charles F. Harrison, of Loudoun county, said that Loveless had been killed by "blows on the head." The body was found in the servants' quarters by a Negro employee. An autopsy sy was scheduled in an attempt to fix the time of death.

Loudoun county authorities asked aid of Washington police in solving what Harrison said was "a very brutal murder."

The lawyer's wife, Mrs. Irene Loveless, with whom he lived at the country estate, was reported visiting in Alabama.

Besides his wife he is survived by three daughters.

When a woman ruins a man's life and still seems sweet and charming the general verdict is that he shouldn't have been such a fool.

No Mails Thursday Thanksgiving Day

New Castle's post office will observe a full holiday Thursday—Thanksgiving day.

Strange as it may seem, everybody but the rural letter carriers will get a rest—and strange as it also seems, the rural men did their resting last Thursday. A postal regulation requires the rural postmen to observe the holiday which the federal government celebrates.

But no city deliveries will be made and not a window will be open. The day will be quiet as far as normal service is concerned.

Having an evil mind is an advantage in war. Our side fools itself by expecting others to be decent.

Santa Claus Having His Greatest Season Since Back In 1929

By WATSON FENIMORE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Santa Claus—that old gent in the red suit and white whiskers—is having his biggest toy year since 1929 and, if the stocks in the nation's stores hold out as expected, may set an all-time record come Christmas Eve.

Apparently fearful that defense priorities may cause a shortage of trains, dolls, wagons and all those items so dear to childish hearts, parents are rushing to toy counters in unprecedented swarms for so early in the Christmas buying season, a survey showed today.

Passage of Thanksgiving in 32 states has helped speed the start of the holiday shopping and estimates that national income this year is 20 per cent ahead of that of pre-depression years make for the predictions of an all-time high in toy sales.

Plenty Of Toys

But there will be plenty of toys to go around, merchandising authorities generally agreed. Stores from coast to coast were said to have anticipated the heavy demand by buying earlier and in greater quantities than usual. Some replacements may be necessary before Christmas, but otherwise the supply is expected to hold out.

After January, however, it may be a different story, retailers said. Then there is expected to be a marked shortage, especially in trucks, wagons and other metal toys. Bicycles and velocipedes, now much the same as last year's models, are expected to be denuded of chrome and nickle trimmings and everything but "essentials." Prices, now the same as in 1940 on some items, are reported booked for substantial increases in 1942.

Mechanical Toys

For the young man, two years to the middle teens, there's nothing much new in Santa's bag this season. Wind-up and electric trains, chemistry and mechanical sets, magic outfits, cowboy, Indian, policeman and soldier suits, sleds and bikes still are the favorites they've always been.

Some stores reported an increased interest in military toys, such as model tanks, guns and coastal defense sets, as a result of the war. Other retail outlets saw no unusual demand for such articles.

The girls appear in for an especially happy holiday if the number of new playthings in their department is any criterion.

For one thing there is a $2 paper doll set. The box contains two dolls and a number of patterns. The innovation lies in the clothes. Although of paper, they simulate silk, flannel, wool and other fabrics to perfection.

Then there's a room-decorating set by which the future housewife can make the furniture and all the trimmings for a miniature bedroom. There's a new, heart-beat doll. Wind the doll up and her heart ticks for a week. There's a tiny stethoscope with which to listen to it.

Yep, the little brass cannon, the steel of the electric train, the rubber of the doll and the aluminum of the model plane may some day be needed for national defense to the detriment of the toy industry.

But that day, young America will be glad to know, is not this Christmas season.

ASKS FOR INCREASE

Dr. William L. Steen, city health officer, presented a communication to city council Monday, in which he requested that the council restore to him a monthly wage of $125.00, which was a voluntary deduction years ago.

California Law Is Held Invalid

Supreme Court Knocks Out Law Affecting Entrance Of Indigent Persons

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The supreme court on Monday unanimously held unconstitutional a California law which makes it a crime to knowingly bring or assist in bringing a non-resident indigent person into the state.

The case was appealed by Fred F. Edwards, who was convicted of violation of the law and sent to jail for six months.

Edwards, resident of Marysville, Calif., was charged with bringing Frank Duncan, a brother-in-law, from Spurr, Tex., knowing that Duncan was without means of livelihood.

After Duncan reached California, he lived at Edwards' home until he was given assistance by the Federal Farm Security Administration. He had $20 when he left Texas, but this had been spent before he reached California.

Edwards, appearing, contended that the law violated the commerce, due process and equal protection provisions of the federal constitution.

Justice Byrnes delivered the court's opinion. While the court was unanimous, Justices Douglas, Black and Murphy joined in one separate concurring opinion and Justice Jackson in another. They accepted the result but not the majority reasoning.

Holding that the law imposes an invalid burden on interstate commerce, and therefore is unconstitutional, the court found it unnecessary to decide whether it violates other provisions of the constitution.

Self-Sacrifice Urged By James

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—Gov. Arthur H. James on Monday called upon Americans to maintain a spirit of self-sacrifice in order to keep the "blessings we are now receiving."

Speaking before the 125th anniversary celebration in St. James Methodist church, the governor said:

"We must hang on to the things which untold generations have demonstrated to us without question the guiding lights of our life. To do this, sacrifices must be made now and not postponed with the idea that another generation can pay for the defense."

"It may be our funeral unless we have that sense of determination to carry on that will entitle us to the blessings we are now receiving."

WAMPUM

SACRED CONCERT

Arrangements are being made by the conductor of the Big Beaver Grange for their chorus to attend the union service of the Methodist and Presbyterian congregation on Sunday, Nov. 30, 8 p. m., in the latter church.

Sunday night at the Methodist church, slides were shown of the missions in Japan, and the work being done, all of which was very interesting and pleasing.

ROTARY CLUB

Wampum Rotary expects to go 100% to New Wilmington tonight to share in the annual buckwheat rodeo feed and social time.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE

Union service of the Methodist and Presbyterian congregation will have their annual service Thursday, at 10 a. m., Rev. Lester Bailey of the Methodist church will have charge of the service. No Wednesday evening services.

KING'S DAUGHTERS

Sixteen members of the King's Daughters of the Presbyterian Sunday school with Miss Thelma Smith of Grove City, a special guest, enjoyed a very delightful meeting Friday night when they were entertained at the home of Mrs. Naomi Leopardo with Miss Esther Martin, co-hostess.

Plans are being made for numerous holiday festivities that the class has annually, and these will be published later.

RUSSIAN BOOKS IN DEMAND

(International News Service)
LONDON.—Since the U. S. S. R. became Britain's ally, the book trade has had an overwhelming demand for Russian literature and for books teaching the Russian language. Booksellers have been able to get rid of old Russian grammars and dictionaries which have been stored away for years. A brisk trade is being done in the works of Tolstoy and Dostoevski.

Denny Planning To Contest Election

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 25.—In the interests of his defeated opponent, Hammar D. Denny, Jr., the Republican party will contest the re-election of Mayor Cornelius D. Scully on Nov. 4, Attorney Thomas Whitten, counsel for the party, announced this afternoon.

Whitten said a petition, contending that thousands of persons who did not appear at the polls but who were listed as having voted, would be filed by Attorney Charles B. Pritchard.

He explained that the Republican party had been collecting affidavits of these non-voters in the city's first six wards.

Civilian Defense Leaders In Session

(International News Service)
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 25.—Urging that state authorities stress the immediate need for training of volunteer workers in the "protection phase," Mayor Florio H. LaGuardia of New York Monday opened a meeting of civilian defense leaders and southern governors.

Earlier, LaGuardia, who is national director of the civilian defense program, warned America to beware of a "phony peace" offer that might come from Nazi Germany.

LaGuardia arrived in New Orleans after 8 a. m. following an eight-day plane trip from New York.

Only four governors were in attendance although the others all sent representatives. In addition to three southern governors, Paul Johnson, Mississippi; Homer Adkins of Arkansas and Sam Jones of Louisiana. Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota was also present.

FACTS—all flavors!

Did you ever hear two eyewitnesses argue about a ball game they've both seen... DIFFERENTLY?

Your newspaper nearly always gets its facts right. It tells you who played, where they played, who won, what the score was. Newspaper men are TRAINED to get facts straight. But, being human, they're not infallible. When the "home-town" paper reports the game—win or lose—it reports it with a little home-town flavor, of course. But it DOESN'T CONCEAL THE FACTS.

Now everybody with any brains at all has OPINIONS. Editors, preachers, storekeepers and ditch-diggers "take sides." Sometimes they agree, sometimes they disagree. In America we give every man the right to his own OPINIONS and the right to speak his mind about them.

educate, inform and influence others by peaceful means. We let any man propose his own brand of religion, his own brand of politics, his own views about laws or behavior. We let competing merchants buy advertising space to state their offers and give their opinions about the wares each believes you should buy from HIM. We let the Red Cross or the U.S.O. solicit support for its work—or let any other organization or cause voice its plea.

Your newspaper—the one you are reading now—is a composite of many flavors. It tries to tell you the facts accurately—and usually succeeds. It tries to tell you what "both sides" of an argument are.

Its news and editorial columns are the PAPER'S honest view of what HAPPENED today and yesterday and what it believes MAY HAPPEN tomorrow. It opens its advertising columns to all reputable manufacturers or merchants or politicians... each to tell HIS opinion of what he wishes to sell.

Fact... opinion. Freedom to print facts and express opinions along with them. That is the very essence of democracy. Without that freedom—and without citizens CAPABLE of acting in the light of free fact and opinion—there is no democracy!

We even go further, over here. We give every man the right to "AGITATE" for his side—to preach.

Read, each Tuesday in this space, the messages about your liberty and how America's newspapers help you defend it. Your letters of comment will be appreciated by the editor and by this committee—Newspaper Publishers Committee, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York City.
